New Teacher Needed for JCIRA's English Learners class

Nancy Zamberlin, our current English Language Learners teacher (formerly known as English as a Second Language or ESL class), has decided to semi-retire, which includes resigning from her role with JCIRA. We're very happy for Nancy, who has shepherded this class through multiple locations for so many years, starting way before JCIRA even existed.

We're also very, very sorry to lose her! This class has been Nancy's "baby" and she has devoted so much of herself to teaching her students, working with volunteer tutors, and managing the overall program. We wish her a well-deserved break from working at least two jobs.

The current class year has been going very well and ends in a few weeks, so we will need a new ELL teacher beginning in September when the class normally resumes. In the best of all worlds, a new teacher would be hired before the end of the current class year so that they could become familiar with the program and the students. If that can't happen, the new teacher will start at summer's end. Either way, Nancy will be available to help orient the new person.

Do you know of anyone who could be JCIRA's next excellent ELL teacher and program manager? If so, please contact Larry Jensen at lpjensen15@gmail.com for information and a full job description.
